

What We Still Don't Know

This was a great series of programs. Again and again I find that while I love televised documentaries and the History Channel etc... I find them less and less informative in comparison to what is out there in the field of creative and mind expanding documentaries. It is for this reason I constantly look for things really worth watching. This is one out of hundreds on the internet worth watching, instead of what is on the nightly TV lineup! Choose Read More to watch the Embedded Video.

What We Still Don't Know

Are We Real?

This documentary delves into the meaning of life and rules of science, religion, physics and reason. An interesting part about the Computer Game Life that started in the early 80's. All us geeks have seen it but rarely understood the implications of simple rules that apply to life and creation.

{google}8018371269760059556{/google}